

MILAN - FC Internazionale Milano and Edilkamin S.p.A. are pleased to announce a partnership agreement for the 2019/2020 and 2020/2021 seasons.

Edilkamin have become the club's Official Winter Partner. Their brand will be visible inside the San Siro stadium on the advertising boards as well as on the main screen during Inter home matches.

Furthermore, the Edilkamin brand will be visible on all communications placed at the entrance to the hospitality areas of the San Siro stadium as well as at the press room of the Suning Training Centre in Appiano Gentile.

"Edilkamin have embodied Milanese design quality for over fifty years," explained Inter CEO Alessandro Antonello. "The partnership announced today is built upon the foundations of innovation – a value which has characterised both Inter and Edilkamin through history. We are certain that this two-year agreement will facilitate many opportunities for successful collaboration."

For over fifty-five years, Edilkamin have been a leading manufacturer of stoves, fireplaces and boilers (both wood and pellet). Their products marry unmistakable Italian design with advanced technological solutions to ensure that these products are respectful of the environment.

Edilkamin Director Stefano Borsatti: "For the first time in the history of our company, we have made the decision to seek a high-level sports partnership. There could only be one partner and that was Inter. As well as the Nerazzurri sympathies present in the company, we both share a long history of success. Above all, we are united in our continuous search for innovation, high performance and reliability."

"We are certain that our association with the iconic Inter brand will allow us to increase brand awareness both in the Italian and in international markets. In addition, the possibility of entering into the homes of millions of football fans will certainly support our sales network."
